Continuing education credits pending approval:
ISA, Planning and Zoning, and CNLP

Central NY ReLeaf Urban Forestry Workshop

Community trees provide a host of environmental, economic, and social benefits, from shade and reduced energy costs to wildlife habitat and increased property values. Since tree planting can be time-intensive and expensive, it's important to plan ahead and use proven techniques to maximize the chances for success.

This workshop will cover proper tree handling and planting techniques for bareroot, balled and burlapped, and containerized trees, as well as the tips, tricks, and pitfalls of each. Attendees will also learn about post-planting maintenance, including structural pruning, which helps ensure the best foundation for the long-term health and longevity of your community trees.

This hands-on workshop is designed for municipal workers, landscape architects, landscapers, and folks looking to properly plant and care for trees in their own back yards.

New York's Community Forestry Partners

New York ReLeaf

ReLeaf is a statewide program managed by the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation's (DEC) Urban and Community Forestry Program (UCF) in partnership with the NYS Urban Forestry Council. ReLeaf brings together professionals and others to share information about our community forests and how to improve them. Volunteer members of ReLeaf include interested citizens, forestry professionals, representatives of environmental not-for-profits, local government officials, and municipal staff.

New York State Urban Forestry Council

The NYS Urban Forestry Council is a not-for-profit organization that advises and assists DEC's UCF in the implementation of statewide urban and community forestry programs.

Funding for DEC's UCF and NYS Urban Forestry Council programs, including ReLeaf, is provided in part by a grant from the USDA Forest Service.

These institutions are equal opportunity providers.
